The departmental teachers warmly felicitated the speakers, appreciating their contributions to the herbal product industry and their willingness to share insights with the participants.

- Dr.Subhalakshmi Ghosh delivered an engaging talk on the global and domestic market trends for herbal products, emphasizing the growing consumer shift towards natural and organic solutions. She highlighted the role of innovation and research in creating unique, high-demand products, government schemes, loans, and grants available for start-ups in the herbal sector..
- Dr.Aminul Islam focused on the ALONA Life science Private Limited as their entrepreneurial journey, providing a practical roadmap for budding entrepreneurs. He discussed business strategies, regulatory requirements, and the significance of sustainable practices in the production and marketing of herbal products.

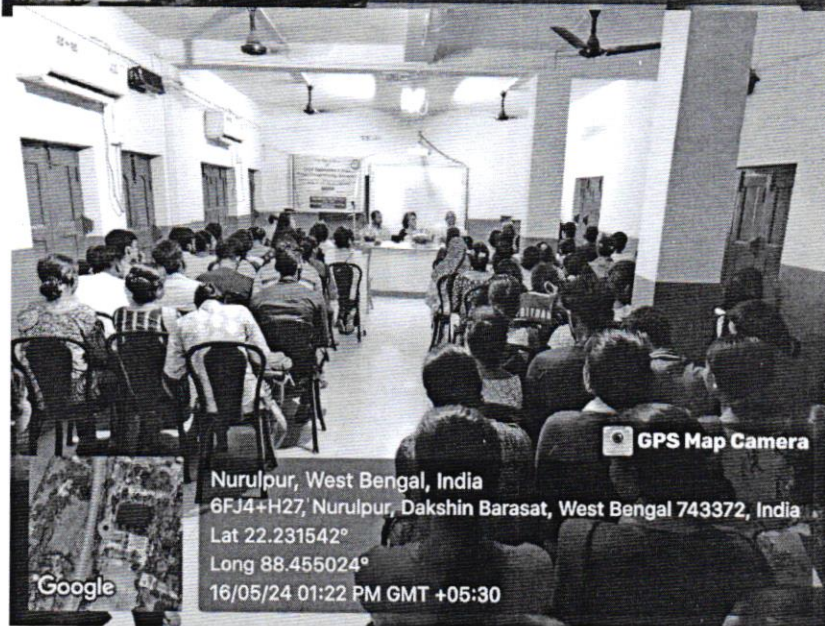

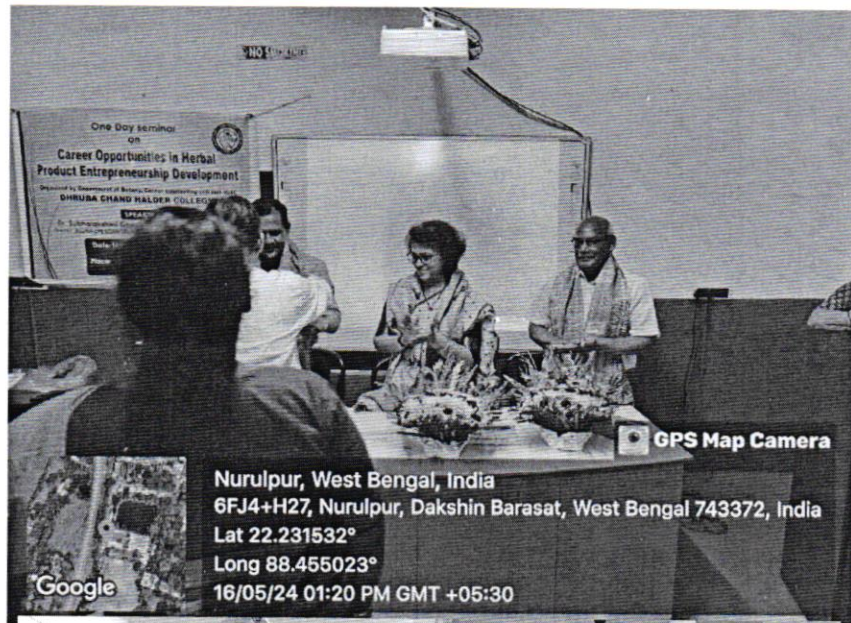

The interactive session allowed participants to ask questions and seek guidance on their entrepreneurial aspirations. The seminar concluded with a vote of thanks, expressing gratitude to the guests, faculty members, and participants for making the event insightful and impactful.

Outcomes of the seminar:

- (1) Participants will gain a clear understanding of the potential scope in the herbal product industry.
- (2) Awareness of market trends and consumer demand for natural and herbal products will increase.
- (3) Participants will be informed about funding opportunities, government schemes, and incubation programs for start-ups in the herbal sector.
- (4) Participants will acquire basic entrepreneurial skills, including business planning, product development, and marketing strategies.
- (5) Participants will recognize the potential of creating job opportunities through herbal product entrepreneurship, particularly in rural areas.
